FAST-SERMON,

UPON THE

ACCOUNT of the WAR

2 KINGS ix. 22.

And it came to pass when Joram saw Jehu, that he said, IS IT PEACE, JEHU? And he answered, WHAT PEACE, so long as the Whoredoms of thy Mother Jezebel, and her Witchcrafts are so many?

AS soon as Jehu was anointed to be King of Israel, with a Commission from God, to extirpate the whole House of Ahab, and to avenge the Blood of the Prophets, and of all the Servants of the Lord, that had been shed by Jezebel, he immediately hastens to Jezreel. Joram the Son of Ahab was there, to be recovered of the Wounds, he had lately received from the Syrians; and with him was Ahaziah, King of Judah, who had married his Sister, and came thither to make him a Visit.

Upon the Approach of Jehu, and the Watchman's notice of it, King Joram dispatcheth an Horse-man to enquire the Reason of his coming, and to demand if all things were in Peace. He receives a short Answer, What hast thou to do with PEACE? turn thou behind me.

v. 18, 19. second Messenger has the same Success. Upon which the two Kings hasten to their Chariot, as under a Divine Infatuation, to go out to meet Jehu, and his Company. The Detention of two Messengers, might have sufficiently alarm'd them to expect an Enemy: But such whom God intends to destroy, seldom suspect a Danger, till it is too late. Upon the meeting of King Joram with Jehu, he asks the Question in the Text, IS IT PEACE? And receives the following Answer, WHAT PEACE? so long as the Whoredoms and witchcrafts of thy Mother Jezebel are so many?

This Joram who asked the Question, was an Idolatrous and Wicked Prince, King of the Ten Tribes of Israel; the wretched Son of two infamous Parents, Ahab, and Jezebel.

There was another Joram, or Jehoram, King of Judah, the Son of good Jehoshaphat, who began not his 2 Kings 8. 16. Reign, till the fifth Year of this Joram King of Israel. He was the Father of Ahaziah, who was now at Jezreel with King Joram: of him I shall have occasion to speak afterwards, as being slain with him.

Jehu, who makes the Answer to the Question in the Text, was the Captain of the Hosts of Israel, but by God's Command anointed to be King of Israel, with exprefs Order to root out the Family of Ahab, and execute the Judgments of God on his whole House. And in the following part of the History, we find he did so, with some Exactness as to the Thing, tho' not with that Integrity of Heart and Design, as he ought to have done it; for he still cleaved to the Worship of the Calves at 1 King. 10. Dan and Bethel. The best of the Princes of Israel were 31: of such ill Characters, that of twenty of them, we hardly read of one good; Jehu was one of the best; as Ahab, the Father of this Joram, was one of the worst. But Jehu is anointed by God, to destroy that wicked Family of Ahab; and upon his Anointing, he hastens to Jezreel, to accomplish it upon this King Joram, Ahab's Son. As soon soon as he sees him, he asks this Question, IS IT PEACE, JEHU?

For the Import of the Question, Is it Peace? or, Is it well, Jehu? as it might be rendred, and is so in other Verses; it is as if he should have said, 'Is there no bad News, Jehu, that occasions thy unexpected Coming? What means this thy sudden and hasty Journey? Is the Army routed by the Syrians? Is Hamath recovered again? Is it Peace? Is there any new Rebellion, or Conspiracy? What ill Tidings dost thou bring? Is it Peace, Jehu? There needed no stay for an Answer, the very Countenance of Jehu doubtless spoke Death to Joram; and his Tongue seconds it in the following Answer of the Text, viz.

And Jehu answered, What Peace, so long as the Whoredoms of thy Mother Jezebel are so many? i.e. 'Thou speakest of Peace with Men, when, by thy impious Idolatry and Blood, thou and thy House have bid Defiance to Heaven, and made God thine Enemy. What Peace, so long as Thou and thy Mother are in open Rebellion against God? What Peace, while Heaven has a Controversy with thee and thy Family? While the Wickedness of thy Mother Jezebel is avouched and entertained as thine own? What Peace, what kind of Peace dost thou look for? Or, how canst thou expect any; There is no Peace, there will be none, there can be none, it is in vain to imagine there shall be any. No, the Voice of thy Mother's Guilt has reached to Heaven, and awakened Divine Vengeance against thee, and thine House: God will destroy that wicked Woman, Her, and Hers, Root and Branch, as a Generation of Vipers. What Peace, so long as the Whoredoms of thy Mother Jezebel, and her Witchcrafts are so many?

By Whoredoms here we may understand Idolatry, which is often so called. And the Idolatry of the House of Ahab has particularly that Name affixed to it. The other Jehoram is charged with making Judah to go a whoring, ^{2 Chron. 21. 13.} like like to the Whoredoms of the House of Ahab. I do not exclude literal Whoredom, and all other Uncleaness, which does sometimes precede, and usually accompany, or follow Idolatry, and false Worship.

And it is not improbable, but that by Witchcraft here, the same is to be understood: The Worship of Idols being the Service of the Devil, and a kind of Compact with him: It is a sign that he hath powerfully bewitched, and deceived the corrupt Minds of Men, and may well be called Witchcraft. Under one or both of these Crimes here mentioned, Idolatry is doubtless to be understood; because that was the great Sin of Jezebel, for which Jehu was to execute Judgment, and it is not likely he would omit it in his Charge against her.

Our Modern Infidels, who deny any such thing as Witches, can take no Advantage of this Interpretation, because the comparing of Idolatry to Witchcraft, does suppose that there is such a thing as Witchcraft; and there are other places of Scripture that mention Death to be the Punishment of it.

What Peace, so long as the Whoredoms of thy Mother Jezebel? &c. Her Crimes are mentioned, rather than His; partly, as they were more infamous and notorious; partly, as it was for her Sins, that God was now about to execute Judgment; and partly, as this Joram had been nursed up, and educated in her cursed Idolatry, and so her Wickedness became his own: But especially are Her Crimes taken notice of, to show that it was not a particular War with Joram, but with the whole Family; and that the Anger of God, which Jehu was to execute, was against the whole House of Ahab and Jezebel. Which is a sufficient Account, why Jehu makes such a smart Answer to Joram's Question, Is it Peace? as this, What Peace, so long as the Whoredoms of thy Mother Jezebel, and her Witchcrafts are so many?

This therefore is the Sum of these Words, as the Ground of my following Discourse. That there is no Peace to be expected by impenitent, unreformed Sinners. Or, That Sin is an Enemy to all kind of Peace. What Peace, so long as, &c. That I may Confirm and Improve this, let me, first, consider that there is a threefold Peace. First, Divine Peace, or Peace with God. Secondly, External and Civil Peace between Man and Man, and this in lesser and greater Societies. Thirdly, The Peace of the Soul, inward Peace, or Peace of Conscience. Now if we look above us, or round about us, or within us, there is no Peace to be had, while Sin is not repented of, and reformed.

Is it P E A C E, Jehu ?

In general, Peace is taken for all kind of Good, for all manner of Blessings. Sometimes for Spiritual Blessings. John 14. The Legacy of Christ is Peace, My Peace I leave with you. 27. In me you have Peace. Sometimes for all Temporal Blessings. God threatens to take away P E A C E from a People, even Loving kindness and Mercies. Hence the ordinary Salutation, Peace be to such an one, or Peace be to such a House; that is, Blessing, Favour, Mercy. Now Sin, as the Cause of all Evil, is an Enemy to Peace in this Latitude, as it is that which separates between God and us, and hinders all good things from us. But let me speak more distinctly to these three kinds of Peace, Peace with God, and Peace with Men, and Peace with Conscience. Ch. 16. 33. Jer 16. 5.

I. Peace with God. That Sin is an Enemy to this kind of Peace, I need not so much to prove, as to Apply. You know it is the abominable thing which his Soul hates. Jer. 44. 4. That he is of purer Eyes than to behold Iniquity. That he is angry with the Wicked every day. That his Wrath is declared from Heaven against all Ungodliness and Unrighteousness of Men. That on them he will rain Snares, Fire and Brimstone, and an horrible Tempest. God hath no Enemy in the World but those which Sin makes him. The Wicked are represented in the holy Scriptures as Enemies to God, Fighters against him, Haters of him, &c. This Contrariety of Sin to God must needs obstruct our Peace. Psal. 7. 11. Rom. 1. 18. Psal. 11. 5, 6.

Peace with him. It is a walking contrary to God, it is a Contempt of him, a Rebellion against him, a bidding Defiance to him; and therefore, while Sin is unrepented of, God is our Enemy.

And of how dreadfull Import is that to a considering Mind, to have God for our Enemy! For who knows the Power of his Wrath? Whose Heart can endure, or Hands be strong, if he ingage against us! If he rise up against us, if he enter into Judgment with us! He is a consuming Fire, and we like Thorns and Briars, which he will go through and burn up. Whither shall we flee for Shelter, or seek for Refuge? And how fearful is it to fall into his Hands! Who is the Almighty and Eternal Judge, the God to whom Vengeance belongs, when the time of his Patience and Long-suffering is over! How can you have a Moment's Rest, when God is apprehended to be your Enemy? How can you live merrily, or in quiet for one Day or Hour, while you have no ground to apprehend the Breach is not made up between him and you? While his destructive Vengeance hangs over your Heads, and is every moment ready to fall on you, and crush you into everlasting Destruction. While, for ought you know, the next moment may for ever divide between you and all your Comforts, and all your Hopes; I say for Ever. O think of that little Word, for Ever, Everlasting. You that are not reconciled and at Peace with God, by Repentance towards God, and Faith in the Blood of Jesus, and yet are content and careless, think of this, and Tremble. Don't make light of the Divine Threatnings, and despise that Wrath, that in a moment can destroy you. Let such think of it, who go on securely in some hidden course of Sin, upon the brink of Eternal Ruin. Spell me that Word EVERLASTING added to the Wrath of God, and tell me how many Syllables of Time go to the compounding of it. There is no Peace, saith my God, to the Wicked; but Indignation and Wrath, and a fearful fearful looking for of Judgment, and fiery Indignation. O consider it, believe it, apply it, while it is possible to make Peace with God, and escape his Righteous Vengeance.

II. Sin is an Enemy to Civil Peace between Man and Man. What else is the Original of Wars and Fightings, of Confusions and Strifes, of all the Tumults and Disorders, Jam. 4. 1. and Desolations in Human Societies? That Men are Wolves, and Bears and Lions, and Tigers, and almost Devils to one another? What else is the great Makebate of the World, that destroys the Peace, and disturbs the Order, defaces the Beauty, and obstructs the Happiness and Tranquility of Families, and Churches, and Cities, and Nations? I might shew this in divers Particulars. As,

1. Some Sins, and some Lusts, have a direct Influence and Tendency to hinder and destroy Civil Peace; as Pride, Covetousness, Envy, Ambition, Wrath, Malice, Revenge, inordinate Passions, &c. 'Tis the Pride and Ambition of Princes, that puts them upon enlarging their Territories, with the Destruction of their Neighbours: Tho' they have many Pretences to colour their Ambition, Covetousness, Envy, or Revenge. The Defence or Promotion of true Religion is sometimes made a Cover for Violence, Rapine and Murder. How many thousands of Indians and Infidels have been massacred by the Spaniards, to make room for Christianity, and to plant the Gospel among them? And how much innocent Blood hath been shed in Christendom, to reduce Hereticks to the Unity of the Roman Church, or punish their Obstinacy or Apostacy who would not return to it? And this under the pretence of Religion and Conscience, and a Zeal for Truth, in Obedience to Christ's Vicar, to propagate the Faith of the Gospel. Strange Christians, who think it their Duty to destroy all others, when and where they are able to do it, if the Pope do but require and encourage it for the Catholick Cause. Ambition and Pride, ignorant Zeal, and Envy, Covetousness and Cruelty, are the Spring of those Disorders in the Christian World.

2. God has threatned, as the Punishment of Sin, to take away Civil Peace from a People: Because thou hast rebelled against the Lord, saith the Prophet, there shall be Destruction upon Destruction. These things hast thou procured unto thy self, this is thy Wickedness; because it is bitter, it reacheth unto thy very Heart, &c. For the Punishment of a particular People, God appoints the Sword, where he will, and as long as he pleaseth. Against Ashkelon, and the Sea-shore, it is said, he hath appointed it; and therefore it shall not be quiet, the Sword shall not be put up into the Scabbard. The like Passages you have in other Prophets. *

3. On the contrary, if Sin be repented of and forsaken, Civil Peace is the Matter of a Promise. O that thou hadst hearkened to my Commandments! then had thy Peace been as a River, and thy Righteousness as the Waves of the Sea! But there is no Peace, saith the Lord, unto the Wicked. If our Ways please the Lord, he has promised to make our Enemies to be at Peace with us. All their Designs and Attempts, tho' never so probable, never so formidable, shall be blasted by God's appearing for us. Associate your selves, and you shall be broken in pieces; take Counsel together, and it shall come to naught: for God is with us. The most insolent Invader shall have Orders to retreat from such a City, or shall not come nigh to such a Place. Thou shalt not come before it with a Shield, or cast a Bank against it, or make a Trench, or shoot an Arrow, says God of the proud King of Assyria, (the old Enemy of Jerusalem;) For I will defend this City to save it, saith the Lord of Hosts. To the like purpose Peace is promised to an obedient, reformed People, in several places of Scripture. †

4. The returning from Sin, besides the Promise of God to reward it, hath a natural, direct Influence in it self, on on the Peace and Welfare of any Country. For nothing would more promote the good of Human Society, than a faithful Observance of the Laws of Christ. By the Rules of Christian Religion, God has provided for the Welfare of Mankind in all Capacities and Relations. If Men had the Wisdom to observe and follow, what God hath mercifully directed and enjoined, the World would be blessed with Peace: Every Man's just Rights would then be preserved, in his Relations, Life, Liberty, Estate, Reputation, &c. For the Divine Commands are calculated to make a People happy; tho' some of them are such as suppose the Corruption of Mankind to be so great, as that the Generality will not observe them. And even that is an Instance of the Divine Wisdom and Mercy.

Prov. 1. ult.
Mic. 4. 4.

We are under an Obligation to think of, and pursue whatsoever is True and Venerable, Just and Pure, Lovely, and of good Report; and to do Good to All, to have an obliging, condescending Carriage to All; and as much as in us lies, to live peaceably with all Men. This would prevent Contention, or quickly end it. But there can be no valuable or lasting Union amongst Men, without practical and serious Religion, especially without Humility, and Christian Self-denial. For sinful Selfishness, which is the contrary to it, is the source of Confusions and Quarrels; but Humility and Self-denial would bring Men to Peace and Concord: it would make us propose and prosecute the most excellent uniting Ends; and by conquering and curing the inordinate Love of Earthly Things, take away the great Occasions of most Quarrels. It would make Men follow after Peace, and the things that make for Peace. It would make them of a publick Spirit, and do what they can to promote the publick Welfare, and prefer it before their own private Interest; as Mordecai, Nehemiah, David, &c. But a selfish Man is his own End, and cares not what becomes of the Publick Good, so he thinks he can promote his own. Magistrates and Subjects could not live in Jealousies of

Phil. 4. 8.

Eth. 10. 3.
Neh. 1. 2.
& 2. 3, 4.
Psal. 1. 7.
5, 6.

one another, as having contradictory Interests, if the honouring and pleasing of God, and the common Good, were the principal End and Interest of both. Husbands and Wives, Brothers and Sisters, Masters and Servants, Neighbours and Acquaintance, if obedient to Christ, would not live at Variance with one another.

The Lusts of the Flesh, Sensuality and Luxury, have expos'd many Countries to the Desolations of War, and particular Persons and Families to Ruin. The Lusts of the Eyes, or lusting after those things which Men see others enjoy, hath had the like Effects. The Pride of Life tends to Discord and Contention, which produce private Animosities, and bloody Wars. But serious Godliness would keep the World in Peace, as forbidding these Sins, and mortifying these Lusts.

It would render Magistrates and Subjects mutual Blessings to one another, if they would mutually observe the Laws of Christ. It would make Princes and Rulers to be Just, and Gentle, and careful of their Subjects Good: it would oblige and animate them to preserve Right, encourage Vertue, and check and punish Wickedness. It would make Subjects Obedient, Loyal, and Peaceable, paying due Honour, and Tribute to Magistrates.

If our Rulers were Men fearing God, they would be Ministers of God for Good; Terrors only to Evil-doers, but a Praise to them that do well: They would then seek the Glory of God, and keep up his Authority, and prefer his Laws before their own: They would be Examples of Vertue and Religion in their publick Station, and so they would do much to draw others to Holiness, Unity, and Peace. Holiness in Magistrates would make them love those who are holy, and give them Encouragement, Countenance, and Protection: It would make them hate Sin, and remove the Abominable Thing, with which God is displeased: It would save them from the dangerous Temptations of their Riches, Power, and Advancement. Authority and Holiness together would make them them highly esteem'd and honour'd, as bearing the Image of the Heavenly Majesty and Goodness. The like for Subjects in the faithful discharge of their Duty: The Fear of God, and Obedience to him, is proper to make Men the best Subjects; thereby we are obliged to honour and obey our Rulers, as the Officers of God. This would make us understand the Blessing of Civil Government, and the Advantage of Protection by it. It would make Men true to their Oaths and Obligations, and dispose them to Unity, and keep them from seeking their own things against the publick Welfare. It would establish the mutual Obligations of Governours and Governed, by the firm Bands of Conscience, and so prevent Violence and Oppression on the one hand, Faction and Murmuring on the other: and while every one hath his due; Order, Peace and Safety would be established.

In short, Consider the Gospel-Rules of Charity, Righteousness and Equity; of loving our Neighbour as our selves; of doing to others, as in the like case we would desire they should do to us: How would these promote the Peace and Welfare of Societies? The like might be said of the Precepts of Contentment, Meekness, Patience, Sincerity, Plain-heartedness, Benignity and Kindness, Compassion and Tenderness, Inoffensiveness, diffusive, impartial Goodness, and readiness to do Good to all as we have opportunity; Forbearance of one another in Love; mutual Forgiveness; not seeking Revenge, or repaying one Injury and Ill-turn with another, but doing Good for Evil, and praying for them that hate and curse us; not meddling with other Mens Matters, but minding every one his own Business, &c. These and the like Commands and Rules of the Gospel tend directly, in their own Nature, to the Peace and Happiness of Civil Society. So that Sin, in its own Nature and Tendency, as well as by the Righteous Judgment of God, is an Enemy to Civil Peace.

. All the unbecoming Heats and Disputes, Strifes, and Persecutions among Christians, all the uncharitable Fewds, Contentions, and Hatred among Neighbours, are from the Lusts of Men. This is one Instance of the present Correction and Reproof of Sin. Did we but observe the Orders of Christ, and follow the Gospel-Rule, with how different a Face would the World appear? how happy would be the Nation, the City, the Family, where the case were thus? But what Contentions and Enmities are caused every day by Pride, Drunkenness, and Evil-speaking, and other such Immoralities, in every Town, Village, and Neighbourhood, we might find Instances. Were it not for the Corruption of Mankind, and the sad Effects of that, there were no Foundation in any sense to call the State of Nature, the State of War. The Peace and Harmony, and consequent Happiness of the World had not been destroy'd, but by the Sin of Man. What Nation was ever set on fire within it self, or made desolate by a Foreign Power? what Battel was ever fought, (much less a Duel;) what War was ever commenc'd, or prosecuted, but on one side or both, Ambition or Pride, Rashness or Rebellion, Fury or Revenge was at the bottom? Hence they spring as from their grand Source, by these were they cherish'd as by their proper Fuel. The great Convulsions and Desolations that tear Provinces and Empires, and destroy Kingdoms, are caused by Armies of Iniquities rather than of Souldiers. Discord, Contention, and War, are the Scum of Pride. Whereas the Meek shall inherit the Earth, and be delighted with multitudes of Peace. Among the sinless Angels, tho' there be many Legions, we read of no Wars. The Earth only is the Seat of War; Jerusalem above is free. If Men would cease to do evil, and learn to do well, Spears would be turned into Plow-shares, and Swords into Pruning-hooks. And the Inhabitants of the Earth would learn War no more, did they once forbear to be wicked. Princes would not oppress and murder their Subjects;

Prov. 13.
10.

nor would Subjects rebel against their lawful Sovereigns. A blessed universal Peace would return to the Earth, which is now such a Stranger to so great a part of the World. So that the Reproof and Correction of Sin, thunders in our Ears by the noise of Canon, and the Instruments of War, and is louder than the beating of Drums, and the found of Trumpets: It should pierce our Hearts, as do the last Cries of mangled Souldiers; and affect us, as do the Tragical Effects of a lasting War.

III. There is another kind of Peace which is Inward, or Peace of Conscience. And as no Peace with God or Man can on good grounds be expected, while Sin is unrepented of; so nor Peace with our Selves. 'Tis by the Faith and Obedience of the Gospel, that the Understanding, Will, and Conscience are made to agree, and have a peaceful Harmony in the same Subject. 'Tis by resigning our Judgments to the Divine Wisdom, and our Hearts and Affections to the Divine Will, in his Word and Providence, that we must attain and keep inward Security and Peace. 'Tis by Uprightness and Sincerity, in contradiction to Hypocrisie and Dissimulation, that our Hearts are fixed and established, and the Tranquility of the Soul maintain'd in all Conditions.

It is true, thro' the Deceitfulness of Sin, thro' the Pleasures and Diversions of this World, thro' the Blindness and Security, and Hardness of Mens Hearts, the Influence of Satan, and oftentimes the righteous Judgment of God, Multitudes do speak Peace to themselves in a course of Sin, in a way that is not good: But this Peace is their Disease, it is no better than Stupidity, it is the Insensibility of a Man in a Lethargy; and if it be joined with sensual Mirth, it is the Jollity of a Mad-Man. For true Peace of Conscience cannot consist with Sin not repented of, and not forsaken. For the Proof of this, consider,

1. There is no Foundation for any such Peace. After all their bold Atheistical Talk, Few can disbelieve there is a God, who made and governs the World, to whom they must be accountable: They cannot extinguish the Differences of Good and Evil in their own Minds: They cannot have that inward Calmness and Peace, after great Provocations, as after resisting Temptation, and doing those things which Conscience approves: They cannot but apprehend that there will, or at least may be a future Judgment: They cannot be persuaded, that God takes no notice of their Sins; or that, tho' Conscience condemn for them now, God will not punish hereafter. This they find when they durst be so bold as to think of Death, and the final Judgment of God, and of passing into an Everlasting State, which ordinarily they think of, as seldom as they can. Because hereby, their Peace is disturbed, and they are ready to sink under the Fears of an After-reckoning. This is ordinarily true, Those Excepted who are so stupified and hardened, as to be past feeling; which is not the Case of all, nor is it presently the Case of any. But great Peace have they that love thy Law, and nothing shall offend them. This cannot be said of others, whose brutish Sensualities, and flashy Joys, which they call Pleasure, are tinctur'd with Uneasiness, and end in Sorrow. They have Care, and Fear, and Trouble, and Weariness and Regret; and do those things daily, which must make them unsatisfied with themselves, when they come to review them. But the good Man hath the promise, of having his Desires granted and fulfilled; and while he walks uprightly, may expect things will proceed fairly, orderly, sweetly, and with Delight: he hath the ground however of inward Satisfaction.

2. Most Men, who live in a Christian Country, under the Ministry of the Gospel, and yet continue in Sin, do act against their own Light, and the Dictates of Conscience; they live in a Contradiction to what they know they ought to be and do, and therefore can have no inward Peace. Conscience tells Thee, O Man, that this thy Course is not pleasing to God, that this is not according ding to Scripture-Rule; that thou must leave thy vain Company, and redeem thy Time, and live no longer in the neglect of Prayer; that thou must repent of Sin, and endeavour to make thy Peace with God, and prepare for another World, and be in a readiness for a sudden Death. Thy Conscience tells thee, thou must do so, and therefore if you live in a neglect of this, and in a contrary Course, you are self-condemned.

And yet how many such are there, who from Morning to Night are under the Convictions, and Condemnations of an accusing Conscience; but are held in the Chains of some Sin, so that their Lusts prevail against their Convictions. You know you ought to worship God in private and publick; that you ought to acknowledge him in all your Ways, and make it your Business to please and glorify him, tho you do it not. You know you ought to avoid evil Company, tho you continue to frequent it: You know that Drunkenness is a Sin, and Uncleanneſs a Sin; and Oppression, Covetousness, Injustice, Theft, Over-reaching, Treachery, Perjury, Censoriousness, Backbiting, &c. are Sins. You know for such Sins the Wrath of God is revealed from Heaven: You know your Guilt, you know you have not repented; You know you are not fit to die; you know you ought to turn to God, and seek his Favour, lest you be surprized by a sudden Death: but your Lusts are too strong for your Light.

I wonder not that such Persons cannot bear Retirement, that they do not love to be Alone, for serious Consideration; nay, that they are afraid of waking in the Night; and for that very Reason, some of them have confessed, they usually drink more freely in the Evening, than otherwise they would do: that they may sleep soundly, to prevent the Uneasiness of their own Thoughts, in case they should not sleep: As some Malefactors will make themselves drunk, when they are to be executed, that Death may not be terrible; which is a medicine against Repentance, not against Hell. By some such Methods Men may in part keep of the feeling of their Misery, till the hope of Cure and Relief be past. But what a sort of Peace is this? For if they awake in the Night, their Conscience is awake: And the light of Conscience doth not only shine, but burn and scorch them, even at Midnight. Some of those who pretend to be above such Fears, notwithstanding all their Hectoring, and Damning, and Blasphemy, and Railing, are followed with bitter Reflections of Conscience, and are often filled with Horror and Astonishment, from the Gripes and Terrors of a guilty Mind, as divers have afterward acknowledged, tho Inconsideration, sensual Pleasures and the hope of Death being at a good distance, kept them from such constant Fears in Health.

3. The Rage of some impetuous Lusts, and the Violence of sinful Passions, is manifestly inconsistent with inward Peace. Y^tis from Lust and Luxury, from Pride and Envy, from Malice and Spite, from Ambition and Covetousness, and such Dispositions, (which the Grace of the Gospel is design'd to cure, and Christianity condemns,) that Men cannot enjoy inward Peace and Tranquility. While their Passions run violently and wildly towards the basest or meanest Objects, they must needs be punish'd with inward Uneasiness, Remorse, and Dissatisfaction. They travel with Iniquity, and conceive Mischief; they are in as great Pain almost as a Woman in Travail; and all to bring forth a Lye. One burns with Impatient Lust, which is its own Torment; another eats out his Heart with Envy or Malice; another is even choak'd to Death with Thirst after Money, and is sick and in pain because he cannot reach the Estate he covets. Tho' the more he gets, the more he thinks is yet necessary, ere he can be happy, and at rest: his Fever is still growing. Not to mention the Extravagancies of Lusts and Passions: There is nothing almost so ridiculous and absurd, brutish and abominable, but the Violence of sinful Passions hath brought Men to. The outward Disorder and Folly of their their Actions, show the inward Disturbance and Discomposure of their Mind.

To this purpose speaks the Prophet, The Wicked are like the troubled Sea that cannot rest, that is always casting out Mire and Dirt. They are hurried, and torn, and set upon the Rack, by the violence of various Lusts: Their eager Desires of gratifying some, and the Fears of Disappointment in others, and the Dread of Discovery at other times, and the Apprehension of Punishment afterwards: This in most cases, cannot but destroy the inward Peace of such Mens Minds. But he that walks according to the Rule of the Gospel, needs not be at all this Pain to prevent Disappointment, or Shame; to guard himself, and suspect every Body; to curb his Tongue, and watch his Memory; and manage his very Looks, and Gestures; and to obviate other Mens Jealousies, or contrary Designs; and to prevent the Discovery of his own Intentions, or secret Actions. And I might add, That the Contrariety, and Inconsistency of some Lusts, doth also hinder inward Peace; as while Covetousness makes a Man toil, and labour to scrape together and hoard up, his Pride and Vain-glory prompts him to spend and scatter, that he may not be out-done by his Neighbours.

4. In Adversity and Affliction, in bodily Sickness, or the prospect of Death, we then find what an Enemy Sin is to inward Peace. Then Conscience begins to awake in most Men; then, when they think of passing from one World to another, they are restless and uneasy, and afraid of every thing, and of nothing more than of Dying; then their haughty Spirits are brought down: They tremble and talk at another rate, and will suffer a Minister, or a serious Christian to discourse freely with them, whose Reproof or Presence before, they would not bear.

5. God doth sometimes in this World punish Sin with terrible Rebukes and Terrors of Conscience. He makes them possess their former Iniquities, he sets their Sins in order before them; he awakens Conscience to do its Office as a Witness, and a Judge, and in some part, as an Executioner too: So that they accuse, condemn, and torment themselves. How many careless profligate Sinners, after great Transgressions; and how many good Men, after great Back-slidings, have experienced these Terrors and Rebukes of Conscience?

Believe it, Sinner, whoever thou art, one Sin set home on the Conscience, with the Frowns of God, will sting thy Soul as with fiery Scorpions; it will rend thy Heart with the most desperate Rage, it will make thy Lips quiver, thy Knees tremble, thy Bones rot, thy Spirit to fail within thee. It will make thee apprehend all the Miseries and Torments threatned in Scripture belonging to thee: it will make thee cry out, 'I am feeble and sore broken, mine Iniquities are a burden too heavy for me! O how shall I appear before God! How shall I flee from his Presence, or bear his Wrath! O that I had never sinn'd! O that I had never been! O that I might cease to be! How much better if I had never been born, never seen the Light! Lord! if I should now die, what would become of me? and if I should yet live, will the Lord ever be merciful to me? The Sins I have committed are numberless and hainous, the Wrath I feel is unexpressible; that which I fear is Infinite and Endless! Lord! I see if I live, I am an undone, accursed Creature! and if I die, (O let me not die!) I fear I shall be for ever a damned miserable Sinner! Is there no Mercy, Lord! no hope for such a Wretch as I have been! And in such Cases all the Pleasures and Diversions, the Riches and Honours of the World will signify little, they are Physicians of no value, you can taste no sweetness in them; they can give no rest to thy disturbed Thoughts, they cannot calm thine accusing Conscience: God alone can create the Fruit of the Lips, Peace, Peace: Men and Angels are not competent Chirurgeons for such a wounded Spirit. If God speak Trouble, who can speak Peace? Ministers and Friends.

Friends may repeat the Promises of Mercy and of Grace, but all in vain, until God bind up the broken in Heart: He alone that removes the Guilt of Sin by pardoning Mercy, can remove the despairing Sense of it by speaking Peace. Now consider this, Ye that forget God, lest he tear you in pieces, and there be none to deliver.

The Improvement of this Discourse may be for Instruction, Reproof, and Exhortation. There are several things we may learn for our Instruction: as,

1. What Peace, so long as the Whoredoms of thy Mother Jezebel? &c. Observe, That it is the Wickedness of Men, (especially of Persons in great Places) is the true cause of Wars, and publick Calamities. Nothing more common than to charge the publick Calamities of a Country upon Religion, and the Professors of it, as Ahab did ^{1 King. 18.} the Famine in Samaria, and his Son Joram likewise, on ^{17, 18.} the Prophet Elisha. But his Answer will serve in both Cases; when he taxes him as the Troubler of Israel, he reply'd, It is Thou, and thy Father's House that have troubled Israel, in that you have forsaken the Commandment of the Lord, and followed Baalim. You may as well say, That Health is the Cause of Sickness, as charge Wars and Contentions, and publick Calamities upon serious Godliness. It is from the Lusts of Men, from the Wickedness of Magistrates and Subjects, that either obstruct the Peace of a People amongst themselves, or provoke God to take it away by desolating Wars. Religion is not to be blamed for any such Miscarriages of Christians, as disturb the publick Peace. You do not condemn the Laws of the Land, because Thieves and Murderers break them: The Laws are good, and oblige to nothing but what is good, tho' ill Men will not observe them. So is it with the Laws and Precepts of Christian Religion. So far as real Christianity prevails, it will influence the Hearts and Lives of Men, for the Good of every Society whereof they are Members. Christians acting according to the Laws.

Laws of Christ, will honour their Rulers on God's Account, as his Officers: They know they obey God in obeying them, and so will do it for Conscience sake; because of his Authority whereof they partake, and of his Command to be in Subjection to them. Therefore so far as they fail in their Duty, by Faction and Rebellion, &c. they forsake their Rule, and offend their Heavenly Lord and Master. And it is not owing to their Godliness and Christianity, but to the want of it.

2. What Peace, so long as the Whoredoms of thy Mother Jezebel, and the Crimes of the Family of Ahab, are so many? Observe, That the Sins of Courts do sometimes bring Judgment on the whole Land. The People were punished with a dreadful Pestilence for David's Sin in numbring the People. God turned not away his Anger from Judah and Jerusalem, notwithstanding the Reformation of Josiah, for the Sin of his Grandfather Manasses, and his Father Amnon. Therefore in the Confession of National Sins, we must look further back than the present Reign, lest the Guilt of former Princes bring Judgment on the Nation. So the Sin of Saul brought three Years Famine upon the Land, till Judgment was executed, and God's Anger turned away. Thus Israel was here punished for the Wickedness of Ahab, Jezebel, and Joram. And doubtless their Example had infected the People too. My Anger, says God, was kindled against the Shepherds, and I smote the Goats; that is, against the Officers in Church and State, who were the Ring-leaders in Sin; and the Community suffered upon that Account, the People were smitten. What reason have we to pray for holy Magistrates, and to bless God when we have such?

3. What Peace to thee, O Joram, while the Whoredoms of thy Mother Jezebel? &c. Observe, That Children may be punished for the Sins of their Immediate Parents; and if they continue to commit the like, they may expect it to the third and fourth Generation. Wicked Parents little consider, sider, how cruel they are to their Children, by entailing the Curse of God upon them, and leaving them Heirs of his Judgment and Wrath, as their Inheritance. We find Naboth's Blood, that was shed by Joram's Father, is mentioned to him his Son, and thrown in his Dish. The Prophet Elisha scruples not to call him the Son of a Murderer. And it is remarkable, that his dead Body is cast into the same Plat of Ground, where Naboth's Blood, it is probable, had been spilt. That very Ground is manured by the Blood of Ahab's Wife and Son, where Dogs lick'd the Blood of Naboth, who was murdered by Ahab's Order.

2 Kings 6:

V. 25, 26.

4. What Peace so long as the Whoredoms of thy Mother Jezebel? &c. We may learn how dangerous it is to be related to a Wicked Family, with which God is angry. For these words are spoken to Joram, who was not so bad as his Father Ahab, and whose Wickedness was Inferior to that of his Mother Jezebel: For it is said of him, Tho' he wrought evil in the sight of the Lord, yet not like his Father or Mother. And yet you see the Issue by this Text. Let Parents remember this, and younger Persons, who are not enter'd into a married Relation. It is a bold and dangerous thing to match into a wicked Family, to be in their Company, and to be of their Kindred. For King Ahaziah, who was now with Joram, he was slain too. Tho' he were the Son of good Jehosaphat, yet he married the Daughter of Jezebel, and thereby was brought to walk in the Ways of Ahab; and he also was destroyed.

It is dangerous in respect of Sin, lest we be infected; and it is dangerous in respect of Judgment, lest we share in their Plagues: For all the seventy Sons of wicked Ahab were cut off. For the Sins of Jeroboam God cut off all the Remnant of his House and Family. And all the Kindred, and Children, and Friends of Baalsha died for his Iniquity. It is so ordinary for the Branches of a wicked Family to share in Punishment with the Heads of it, that the Spirit of God takes notice of it, as an unusual and extraordinary thing, if it fell out otherwise. The Earth Numb. 26. opened and swallowed up Korah and his Company; and it is 10, 11. added, (as deserving to be particularly taken notice of,) that notwithstanding this, the Children of Korah died not.

5. What Peace, Joram, while thine and thy Mother's Sins make God thine Enemy? We may learn, That the Peace, Safety, and Happiness of a People depend upon the Favour and Protection of God. Some of the Heathens have had some Apprehension of this, that the Presence of their Gods would do more for their Defence, than all their Fortifications, or Souldiers: And therefore when they went to War against any People, they used several Methods, which they thought were likely to get the Gods of such or such a City out from amongst them; or they endeavoured sometimes by Bribes and Presents, and sometimes by Inchantments, to gain them over to their side.

History and Experience will confirm it, that in Matters of War and Peace, the Hand of God is chiefly to be regarded: His Providence is most remarkable in the Management and Success of National Revolutions. The Canaanites had their Hearts hardened, and 'tis said, that they did not seek after Peace, would not make Peace with Israel. This came of the Lord, to the intent they might be utterly destroyed. At other times he girds with Strength for War, he musters the Horse to the Battel, he breaketh the Bows, and burns the Chariots, and cuts the Spears in sunder, and determines the Success of National Wars. It is the Sword of the Lord, and of Gideon that must secure the Victory. The latter without the former will prove a wooden Dagger, and do no Execution. But if God be on our side, we need not fear when Men rise up against us. Hence it sometimes comes to pass, that mighty Armies have been blasted by Divine Providence, been ruined we know not how, falling as it were by their own Strength, withered and come to nothing by a secret Curse of God: great Politicians fooled, firm Alliances strangely broken, resolute Commanders disappointed, some-sometimes fearing where no Ground of Fear was, sometimes as resolute and fool-hardy against all Reason, to their own Destruction. Our Age is not without Instances of this.

6. We may not then wonder, if this War is not honourably, and speedily ended. It should not be thought strange, if God should not give Peace in our Days; if he should not establish, and settle us by a speedy, honourable, and gracious Issue of the present War. For what Peace can we expect, while the bare-faced Impieties and Provocations of our Age and Nation, are every where so many? when there is so little Appearance of Reformation, and all Attempts for it meet with such Opposition? It is rather a Wonder, that we remain escaped at this day, and enjoy so many of the Blessings of Peace, while other Countries feel worse Effects of a Lasting War. We may rather sit down and wonder, that, after so long a time of God's Forbearance, after so many Trials as he has given us, after so many slighted Warnings, after such strange Methods of Divine Providence, as we have had to awaken us, that yet, tho' Unreformed, we are not Destroyed. For all our former Judgments have not humbled us, or united us, or taught us to forbear one another in Love: Our late Mercies have not made us thankful: The most astonishing Appearances of God among us, have not wrought a Cure; We are impenitent, and divided, and stiff-necked still. We complain sometimes, that Poverty is coming on us like an armed Man: And who can think otherwise, that keeps any Company, and talks of Trade; or but reads the Advertisements in the Weekly Gazette's? But who reflects on Sin as the cause of All?

II. There are several things also observable from this History of Joram and Jezabel, which may afford Matter of Reproof. Not only as the Openness, and Boldness, and Impudence in Sin, under which the Land groans, is parallel with the Case of Israel: But there are other Instances observable from this History. As,

1. Doth not Spiritual Whoredom and Carnal abound, and the latter too much unpunished? Tho' open and avowed

Idolatry,

Idolatry, we may thank God, is not tolerated amongst us; Yet Covetousness and Worldliness are also called Idolatry: And by Luxury and Intemperance, Men make their Belly their God. And for carnal Whoredoms, the Impurities of the Flesh, and the Lusts of Uncleanness, (and that which contributes to them, Luxury and intemperate Drinking,) no Time or Place can be named since the Reformation, wherein these Sins ever prevailed to that Degree, or rose to that shameless Height, as of late Years in these Islands, and this under Gospel-Light. Which is an high Aggravation, it being the great Design of the Knowledge of Christ by the Gospel, to help our Escape from these worldly Pollutions.

I cannot but acknowledge with Thankfulness to God, and to the just Honour of the Magistrates of this City, that there hath been a great deal done by several, to promote Reformation, and to punish these and other scandalous Crimes. But what Opposition and Discouragement have they met with, (Inferiour Officers especially) in their Endeavours of Reformation? How hath the Attempt been ridicul'd? and their worthy Zeal been mis-interpreted, nicknamed, and reviled? How few have done what they might and ought, to strengthen their hands? How backward are the Generality even of good Men, to assist the Magistrate by giving notice of the Guilty, that they may be punish'd? Tho' they know there are such in Commission, as would be a Terror to Evil-doers, and not bear the Sword of Justice in vain. Would to God there were more of that Character in Commission!

But Few have the Heart, or Courage, or Honesty to endeavour the Punishment and Suppression of Debauchery and Prophaneness, tho' the Instances be such as pollute the Land, and make it mourn. They think it beneath 'em as Gentlemen, or Citizens, or Neighbours, to be any way concerned. But ought not every one to do what he can, to prevent and purge out Wickedness from the City and Nation, by endeavouring the exemplary Punishment of notorious Offenders? Is it not by

by this means, that the fierce Anger of the Lord, kindled against a People, is to be turned away, Numb. 25. 3, 4, 11. And from themselves too. If a Soul sin, and hear the Voice of Swearing, and is a Witness of it, whether he hath seen or known of it, if he do not utter it, then he shall bear his Iniquity. Lev. 5. 1. and 24. 14. He that heareth Cursing, and bewrayeth it not, is Partner in the Sin; Prov. 29. 24. And they shall share in the Punishment of such Sins. It is reckoned among the Iniquities that separate between a People and their God, and cause him to hide his Face, that none calleth for Justice, nor any pleadeth for Truth, Isai. 59. 2, 4. * Thanks be to God, there be some Gentlemen and others, tho' of different Perswasions in some lesser Matters of Religion, who yet heartily agree in a Publick Spirit, as to these things: To these the City and Nation are obliged, and God, I hope, will reward them, and increase their number. But if private Persons, in their several Places, would have done what they could, to assist the Magistrate in this Work of Reformation, where one Malefactor of either Sex hath been punish'd, there might have been twenty.

* I have further urg'd this in a Sermon, to the Societies for Reformation, from that Text.

2. And are not many Parents, too much like Jezebel in bringing up their Children; educating them in Rebellion against God, in Pride, and Vanity, and fleshly Lusts, instead of endeavouring to save them from these? How little Care is there in most Families, to instruct, reprove, and admonish Inferiours; or use the Authority God hath given Parents, to restrain their Children from Sin? So shameful is the Neglect of Parents in this kind, that it abates our Wonder, to find so many Complaints of wicked disobedient Children: for Parents themselves are greatly accessory, to the Wickedness and Ruine of their own Children. How little is done by them, to save them from the Sin of Pride, to antidote them against the Impurities of the World? How seldom do they put them upon secret Prayer, and reading the Holy Scriptures, and other good Books, as soon as capable? How little care to teach them the strict Observation of the Lord's Day, by their Counsels, or by their own Example? And is it any Wonder, when these Children come to set up for themselves, and have Families of their own, if they do not pray in their Families, or sanctify the Lord's Day, when they knew little of any such thing, while they lived with their Parents? Many a damned Wretch will curse the Day of his Birth, for having an Ahab to his Father, or a Jezebel to his Mother.

The Son of a Giant, the Son of a Murderer, the Son of a wicked Woman, and the like Expressions in Scripture, are not only Reproaches, but Reasons, why such Children are no better: for as a good Son makes a joyful Father, so a wicked Parent seldom makes a good Child. An Abraham may have an Ismael; and an Esau may spring from an Isaac; but usually Religious Families are Nurseries of Religion. On the contrary, there is an Entail of Vice and Wickedness in Irreligious Families. In some cases the Entail may reach even to Doomsday. And then how great is that Wrath, which is treasured up from Father to Son, and multiplied on still, unto the Day of Wrath? If it be hard to answer for a thousand Sins, how much more for many thousand Souls, that have successively miscarried from Age to Age, by the Negligence or ill Example of wicked Parents?

3. Another Sin observable in Foram, was, the not consulting God, when he was about to engage in a Matter of great Consequence. For when he, and Jehoshaphat, and the King of Edom went to War against Moab, being in a great strait for want of Water, Foram impatiently complains of God, as having brought out three Kings, to destroy them together in the Wilderness. But says Jehoshaphat, (who then began to bethink himself,) Is there not a Prophet of the Lord, that he may enquire of the Lord for us? Very good; but this should have been done before: They were now gone seven Days Journey in the Wilderness; that present Strait brought this Neglect to the Mind of good Jehoshaphat. But we do not find Foram troubled himself with such Thoughts.

Are not many of you guilty of the like Sin? Do you not undertake many Matters of Moment and Consequence, without asking Counsel of God? as new Relations, new Conditions, new Employments, considerable Voyages or Journies, removal of Habitation to distant Places, &c. without begging God, so to direct by his Providence, so to govern and dispose of Inclinations and Hearts, your own and others; that by the Use of your own Reason, and the Advice of Friends, you may make a true Judgment, what is the most Rational and Christian Course? Instead of this, you mock God, by praying for his Blessing upon that, which you have contrived without him: You leave him only to be the Executor of your Wills.

4. Impenitent distrustful Impatience in a great Strait, is another thing observable in this History of Foram. When Samarita was besieged by Benhadad King of Syria, and the Inhabitants distressed by Famine, (insomuch that an Asses Head was sold for 80 pieces of Silver, and a Cab of Pigeons Dung for five;) King Foram walks upon the Walls, and a Woman cries to him for Help, saying, Help, my Lord, O King! But he rends his Clothes, and falls to cursing and raving, If the Lord do not help thee, says he, how, or whence should I help thee? How shall I help thee? let the Lord help thee; Go and pray to the Lord, as Elisha directs, let him help thee; see how ready he is to do so, by suffering Mat-tters to come to this Extremity. And thereupon he Vows to have the head of the Prophet, and curseth himself, if he did not effect it that day.

 Now consider a little, what was the Case of this poor Woman, she demands a sad piece of Justice of him: For the Famine being very sore, two Mothers had agreed, and engaged against the Laws of God and Nature, to eat their Sons; to devour their little ones, to reassume into their Bodies the Fruit whereof they had lately been delivered. One of them yielded to have her Son boiled, and eaten; but the other Parent, after she had her part of such a Banquet on her Neighbour's Child, refuses to part with her own, and will not stand to the Bargain. Upon the Repentance of one of them of this Engagement, the other appeals to Foram, in the Anguish and Bitterness of her Soul, crying out, Help, O King! O the Terror of Famine! sharpened with the Anger of God; as the bitter Fruit of Sin! that will make the tenderest Mother

Mother of you all, not only to lay violent Hands on the Fruit of your Womb, but Teeth too; and make you eat the Flesh of your little ones, even of an only Son or Daughter. As delicate Women in Jerusalem, as any in London, for ought

 20. Lord, and consider, to whom thou hast done this: Shall the Wo-

 Deut. 28. of the pitiful Women have sodden their own Children, they were their Meat in the Destruction of the Daughter of my People. But in this Distress, King Joram frets against the Lord, and the Prophet Elisba; instead of mourning for Sin, he murmurs against God, saying, Why should I wait upon God any longer? this Evil is of the Lord. Is it so? For that very Reason ought you to wait. Let me hereby call you to reflect, what Instances of Impatience you have at any time discovered under the smarting Rod of God, either private or publick; and humble your selves this day for such Guilt.

5. As he was impatient under the Afflicting Hand of God; so, when by a wonderful Deliverance it was removed, we do not find he was the better for the Deliverance. Some kind of Sorrow, it is true, he professed during his Distress, He rent his Clothes, and had Sack-cloth within upon his Flesh. He made some signs of Humiliation, as we do by appearing here this day; but after his Deliverance he was as wicked as before.

2 King. 6.

Hath it not been thus with us, my Brethren, formerly, when the Hand of God has been against us? When we have been afflicted, chastened, rebuk'd, and disappointed? When you have laid on a Bed of Sickness, and been brought to the Gates of Death? But God hath delivered you, and raised you up again; Wherein are you the better? Are you not as vain and proud as before? Are you not as worldly and earthly-minded as before? as careless, negligent, and remiss, and luke-warm as ever? Is it not so with particular Persons? And is it not so as to the Nation in general, after all the late Wonders of Divine Providence in delivering and saving us? And after all the Effects of War, which many feel, who are concern'd in Trade, and others by consequence throughout the City and Nation?

6. Another

6. Another Sin in the History of Joram, was the mingling Worldly Policy with Religion; pretending the Service of God, when there was something else designed at the bottom. He ^{2 Kings 3: 2, 3, 13.} put away the Image and Statue of Baal: It may be in compliance with one of his Allies, viz. to gratify King Jehoshaphat; whose Assistance he needed against the Moabites. (But he still clave to the Calves of Dan and Bethel.) Whereupon the Prophet speaks sharply to him, What have I to do with thee, thou King of Israel? Get thee to the Prophets of thy Father and Mother: that is, do not come to me, thy Heart cleaves to Idolatry, tho' for a Trick of State thou hast destroyed one of the Images of Baal. Let us remember, if what we do in Religion, in publick or private, be on any carnal Motive, tho' the Matter be good; if respect to Friends and Neighbours, or our secular Interest, &c. be the principal Inducement; if it be not from the Hatred of Sin, and the Love of God, a Sense of his Authority, and in Obedience to him, God will not accept it; but your Sin shall find you out.

7. Hypocritical Partiality in the Service of God, is another Sin to be observed in this History; both Persons in this Text (both Joram and Jehu) are Instances of it. Joram destroyed one of the Images of Baal, Jehu was zealous to destroy the House of Ahab, and the wicked Priests of Baal: But both followed the Sin of Jeroboam, as to the Worship of the Calves. After a large Account of this new King Joram, and of his Zeal in destroying the Image of Baal, and the House of Baal, and the Priests of Baal, it is added, Howbeit, ^{2 Kings 10: 28, 29.} he departed not from the Sins of Jeroboam, who made Israel to sin in the Calves of Dan and Bethel. He was loth to irritate and disoblige his Nobles, and a great part of his new Subjects, who had been long inured to the Worship of the Calves. He durst not trust God to keep the Kingdom safe to him, tho' he had had such Experience of his powerful Providence in bringing him to it: He obeyed and followed God, so far as his apprehended Interest would permit him, and no further. Let us take heed of Partiality in Religion, of dealing deceitfully with God. You may go a great way, and

and do many things; and yet if your Hearts are not right with God, if you are not found in his Statutes, he will not accept you.

8. Instability, and Unsettledness in that which is good, is another Instance. This was the Case of Joram. At one time he calls Elisba Father, at another time he vows to have his Head, and to be the Death of him, whatever it cost. Hath it not been so with some of you? Is it not still thus with many? Now for God, and then for Baal; warm and cold, off and on, up and down; now convinced, and seemingly resolved for serious Religion; the next Week the World is on the Throne again, or some particular Sin prevails, notwithstanding your Convictions. You ought this day to humble your selves for these things.

III. The Exhortation which remains, shall be to Three Duties. First, Mourn for the want of Peace, and bewail the Desolations of War which are the Fruits of Sin. Secondly, Pray earnestly for the Peace of our Jerusalem, and the taking away Sin, that hinders all kind of Peace. Thirdly, Let your own Personal and Family Repentance, and Reformation, show that you are sincere in the two former.

1. Mourn and bewail the want of Peace, and the Desolations of War. Some of you have felt the Smart of this War, so as to have reason to mourn on your own Account: But we may feel more yet: And we have All reason to mourn for so general a Calamity. We ought to compassionate the thousands of Families that have been undone; and thousands of Souls that have been sent to Hell, by dying in an impenitent State. Who have fallen in the high Places of the Field, or been kill'd at Sea, or died in Garisons, or in the Fleet. Let us look abroad into Neighbouring Countries, and we shall find a Roll like that of Ezekiel, written within and without, in Capital Letters, Lamentation, Mourning, and Woe.

Let us mourn also for the Dishonour of the Christian Name by Bloody Wars, when Christians should be Examples of Peace and Union to the whole World. But the Peaceful Name of Christ is blasphemed among Heathens and Infidels, by the Wars of Christendom. 'Tis become a Proverb among the Turks, What! fight and kill one another as the Christians do.

2. Pray

2. Pray earnestly for the Peace of Jerusalem. Earnestly, as those that apprehend the Divine Displeasure, fearing lest Wrath be gone out from the Lord against us: Let us wrestle with him, and strive together in our Prayers, that if it be possible, the Cup may pass from us, and we may turn back an Host of Judgments that seem to be upon their march. Let us pray for Peace with GOD, for the removal of Sin by Repentance, and pardoning Mercy; and then for Brotherly Peace, and Unity, and Love; and for Civil Peace. But the taking away of Sin, is the great thing we should beg, as that which is an Enemy to all kind of Peace: Without which, if God should make an end of this War, and give us Peace, and Plenty, and Trade, and all that we could wish of that kind, if his Anger be not turned away from us, but he only say, Why should you be smitten any more? I will let you alone: Such a Peace, without our Repentance, and God's Pardon, would be the most dreadful Judgment. A displeased God may sometimes deliver an unpardon'd People; and it proves not a Blessing but a Curse to them: For Peace with God is the Foundation of all other Blessings, National and Personal. Let us therefore pray especially for the Pardon of Sin, and Peace with God, and then for Peace in the World, and in the Churches of Christ.

And when you pray for Peace, remember to pray for Truth with it. There can be no firm, or durable Peace, that is not cemented with Truth. How amiable is it to have Peace with Truth! to serve God with Purity and Safety, with Sincerity and Security; to enjoy the Blessings of God's Right-hand and Left together? Therefore beg that Christ may be advanced, by whom God hath made Peace, and reconciled all things in Heaven and in Earth: Where his Truth, Interest, and Authority are left out, or over-look'd, there can be no valuable or lasting Peace. Remember also, that 'tis GOD alone, can ordain and establish Peace for us; can sheath the Sword that is drawn, and make Peace in Europe. Any rash or furious Hand can make a Wound, or kindle a Fire; but GOD Only can heal our Breaches, and extinguish the Flames of Church or State, and bless the World with a happy Peace.

3. Show

3. Show that you are sincere in Mourning and in Praying, by your Personal and Family Reformation. Without resolving and endeavouring this, our solemn Mockery of God in these Solemnities will cost this Nation and City dear. If we confess Sins that we yet love, and resolve not to forsake; if we pretend Desires in Prayer that we have not; if we complain of Burdens that we do not feel; if we spare and cherish any known Lust; if we continue in the neglect of any known Duty, especially what we have been this day minded of; God will be so far from accepting our Fasts and Humiliations, that he will abhor us the more. Is this the Fast I have chosen? (may God say,) If there be no Reformation, no Divorce between you and your Lusts promoted by it, I am no more pleased, than I should be with your eating and drinking: You might as well have let it alone, and bestowed your time otherwise. Your very Confession of Sins will witness against you, if you do not forsake them. To what purpose is your Mourning and Lamentation, and hanging down the Head for a part of a day? Is it unto me, saith the Lord? It is not at all unto me, except you repent, and turn from your evil Ways. Your Sighs and sad Looks, your Confessions and Deprecations, all your Complaints, and all your Expressions of Sorrow, Mourning, and Humiliation without this, avail nothing. Unless your Souls be humbled and broken; unless you abhor your Sins, and loath them, and resolve against them, and henceforward be watchful and diligent in earnest, to overcome and mortify your Lusts, and turn to God. O that some may be able to say, from this Fast-day I began to turn to the Lord with all my Heart. Believe it therefore, and consider it, that unless you put away the Evil of your Doings, the Evil that is in your Tabernacles, in your Houses, in your Trades, in your Families, you cannot expect Peace. We may go on lamenting one Calamity after another, bewailing this and the other Grievance, and be never the better, while we neglect the Cause. While those Lusts and Vices are still reigning, spreading, and increasing, which provoke God to plague and punish an unreformed, divided People. If we would be rid of Judgments, or prevent them, we must begin where the Judgment begins.

Let me urge and inforce this, 1. By calling you to consider der the Miseries of War, and the Blessings of Peace. Most of us know little what it is to live in a Country, that for many Years is the Seat of War; to have a Bloody Enemy at your Gates, or rude Souldiers domineering in your Houses, or to have them pillaged every Week, or laid in Ashes at once; To have your Children wallowing in Blood before your Eyes, Virgins perishing under the Lusts of profligate Villains, Widows mourning for the dead, and hardly daring to show they mourn: Or to have no Children left to the Father, or Husband to the Wife, or Money to the Rich, or Clothing to the Delicate; and they that were brought up in Scarlet to imbrace Dunghills, weltering in their own Tears, or Blood. You would hardly have Patience to hear the recital of what others have suffered. Look abroad, and consider the Countries round about us; behold and see the sad Characters of Misery and Ruin on the Persons, Houses, Fields, Vineyards, Cities, Churches, &c. of our Neighbours.

Yesterday, or a day or two ago, saith one, I and my Family were in Peace and Safety, and had Food and Rayment, Liberty and Plenty; I have now no House to harbour me, no Food to nourish me, or Money to buy it, and hardly Clothes left to cover my Nakedness. A few days ago I slept quietly in my own House or Bed, but now I have no Place or Pillow, but Jacob's Pillow of Stone whereon to lay my Head. My Father is kill'd, or taken Prisoner, saith another: my dear and tender Father, who lov'd me and took care of me; and now he is not, or is a miserable Captive, and hath hardly Bread to sustain himself. Or Parents bewail the loss of a beloved Son: My Son, that was the Staff of my Age, the Joy of my Heart, and Stay of my Family, the Comfort of my Life, he is imprisoned by a cruel Oppressor, or he is mortally wounded, or he is dead. The Widow bemoans the loss of a tender Husband, (made nearer by God, than Father or Mother) snatcht away by an untimely Death, whom she shall see no more. So the Brother, the Kinsman, the Neighbour, the Friend, each lamenting the Desolation the Sword hath made.

Let us mix Thankfulness to God for our selves, with our Pity and Compassion, and Mourning, for the Calamities of Others, who have hitherto suffered more than we. We do not yet hear the Voice of the Spoiler in our Borders: We hear not the murdering Pieces about our Ears. We see not our Houses, and Churches, and Places of publick Worship flaming over our Heads. We do not behold our pleasant and beautiful Dwellings in Ashes, where we traded, feasted, and slept in Peace; nor are turn'd out to the Streets, or Fields for Shelter, not knowing where to look for Security for our selves, or our nearest Relations; seeing some of them slain before our Eyes, or not knowing where they are, whether alive or dead. We don't hear the confused Out-cries and Shrieks of our distressed Neighbours, mingled with the Noise of Foreign, Popish Soldiers, killing, or encouraging to kill. You have not seen tender Babes snatcht from the Breasts of their Mothers, bleeding on the Stones, or sprawling and struggling for Life on the Soldiers Pikes, (and the distressed Mother ravish'd it may be, e're she have leave to die.) You have not seen the ghastly visage of Death, deform'd with Wounds, and Men and Horses wallowing in their Blood; and the amazed helpless People, running too and fro to escape, but know not how or whither. Others have seen, and known such tragical Effects of War; let us mourn for them, and let us be Thankful, that as yet we do not.

Ma. 26. 12.

Psal. 147.

14. &c.

2. Consider, that it is GOD Alone that can give Peace: Our Business is with God in order to an happy Issue of this War. It is He must prevent, or conclude, and shorten the Miseries of War. He that is the Lord of Hosts. He makes Wars to cease to the Ends of the Earth, He must make our Officers Peace: He that works all our Works for us, must ordain Peace for us, that Violence shall no more be heard. It is He that strengthens the Bars of our Gates, and makes Peace in our Borders, and feeds us with the finest of the Wheat. It is He who keeps our City, and guards our Island, and can prosper our Fleet and Armies. He turns Swords into Plow-shares, and Spears into Pruning-hooks; and sheaths the Sword when it hath done his Work. It is owing to his Providence, that the Inhabitants of the Earth learn War no more.

He sits upon the Floods, and stills the Waves, and sets bounds to the Raging of the Sea, to the Lusts of Princes, and to the Tumults Tumults of the People. He can take the Obstacles of Peace out of the way, when we expect it not. He hurles Princes from their Thrones, and sets up others in their room. He breaks their Scepters in pieces, as easily as you can a Venice-Glass. He over-rules their Designs; he can change their Counsels, break their Measures, blast their Power, shame their Confidence, lessen their Numbers, and frustrate their Hopes. When God was displeased with Israel for the Accursed Thing in the time of Joshua, three thousand Israelites shall flee, and be smitten before the Men of Ai, tho' but thirty six in number. But if God be our Friend, tho' ten thousand of the People set themselves against us, we need not fear. He is a sufficient Defence; We need not fear all the Nations of the Earth, if we are at Peace with God, and at Peace among us selves, which would follow upon it. He is the Shield of our Help; and can be a Wall of Fire round about us. Tho' the Enemy come in like a Flood, He can lift up a Standard against him; and when he comes one way, make him fly ten. He can show strength with his Arm, and scatter the Proud in the Imagination of their Hearts, and turn their Devices backward. What deep Designs does he sometimes defeat? What mighty Projects does he disappoint, by taking away Wisdom from the Wise, and Courage from the Valiant; cutting off the Spirits of Princes by a surprizing stroke, altering their Minds and Purposes, or ending their Lives? &c. Peace and War are in his Hand. All the Hosts of Heaven are at his Command and Service; to fight his Battels, and accomplish his Designs. The Stars in their Courses shall fight, and the Elements of Heaven shall be muster'd in his Quarrel. From the Air he can pour down Hail-stones, as on the Ammonites: or send an Angel to discomfit a mighty Army, as he did Senacherib's: or by Fire consume an Enemy's Troops, as those which came against Elijah. The Water shall bury the Egyptians; and rather than fail, the Dust of the Earth, shall start up into Armies of Flies, and Lice, and Frogs, against Pharoah.

And He is the GOD of PEACE, as well as the Lord of Hosts: As 'twas of the Lord, that the Canaanites did not make Peace with Israel; and that Zedekiah rebelled, and that Ahab went to War at Ramoth Gilead, &c. So 'tis He that makes Peace; I Isa. 45. 7. make Peace, I create Evil, I the Lord do all these things. He is said to make the Instruments of War, to create the Smith

 Isa. 54. 16. that formeth them, and to create the Waster to destroy.
 Therefore He can stop them, hinder them, destroy them when Psal. 46. 8. he pleaseth. To all the Ends of the Earth, he is said to make Wars to cease; that is, in all Places, in all Countries, in all Societies, in Families, in Church, in Cities, in Nations, in particular Souls. Every where, it is his Work to make Peace; and Every Kind of Peace is from the God of Peace.

3. If God be Angry, and bring desolating War on a People, Human Help is all in vain, and his Anger will make all the Calamities of War to be double. If Israel become the People of God's Wrath, he lets loose the Rage of Man; and then every base, proud, idolatrous Assyrian shall tread them down, as Mire in the Streets. Even Sampson shall fall by the uncircumcised Philistins, when God departs; whereas before he was wont to slaughter them by Heaps. If God be Angry, and send a Judgment of Sword, or Famine against a People, who can describe the Dread and Horror of such a Calamity? Every Battel of the Warrior, saith the Prophet, is with Isa. 9. 5. confused Noise, and Garments roll'd in Blood; but this shall be with Burning, and with Fewel of Fire. The Wrath of God shall put an unusual Terror, on the very Countenances of an Enemy, and give an unusual Edge to their Sword. The Anger of God, will sharpen the Sting and Terroure of natural Death, it will envenom the Teeth of Famine, and make all the Calamities of War unsufferably more grievous than can be exprest.

There is nothing so base, but the greatest Spirits shall then stoop to; nothing so unnatural, but the tenderest of You All, may be brought to comply with. You think you should part with your own Lives a thousand times over, rather than eat the Flesh of your Children: I doubt not, but the delicate Women in Je- rusalem thought so too; and yet in Famine, they boiled their Children, and were glad to eat them. Pity shall perish from Parents, Courage from the Men of Might, Wisdom from the Antients, Flight from the Swift, and the Strong not be able to find their Hands: For it is the Day of the Lord's Wrath, and who can abide it? You may seek for Death at such a time, and not find it; and within an Hour, Death may offer it self, and then you will flee from it; and within a few Moments repent, and wish you had died. Such will be the Distress, and Anguish of your Souls, between vain Hope, and tormenting Fear, that your very Lives will be a Burden. Think how sad it must be, where the Sword without, and Terror within shall destroy young and old, the Suckling, and the Man with gray Hairs. When there is no Peace to him that goes out, or to him that comes in, but great Vexation on all the Inhabitants; Nation destroyed of Nation, and City of City; for God did vex them with all Adversity. Think of these things, and repent of Sin, for that is the Cause of it.

4. We do not know, what we may further Experience of the terrible Effects and Miseries of War. Most are confident, that all will quickly be well, and the present Cloud vanish: There will speedily be an Honourable Peace; Our Enemies must e're long make Peace, or we shall force them to it; Or if they should not; Many flatter themselves by this or the other Project to provide for them and theirs; they doubt not for their parts, but to escape well, let things be as they will. But may not all such Confidence prove a Refuge of Lies? Consider what God saith by the Prophet, Thus saith the Lord to the King of Judah, Deceive not your selves, saying, The Chaldeans shall depart: tho' you had smitten the whole Army of the Chaldeans that fight against you, and there remain'd but wounded Men among them, yet should they rise up every Man from his Tent, and burn this City with Fire. Jer 37. 9. 10.

What is there for publick Safety, or private Defence, that can be proof against the Anger of God? For certain, it is not the great Numbers, or Riches of a People; no advantageous Situation, or Strength of Places; nor the best prepared Armies and Navies; or any Confederacies abroad, or Fortifications at home, can secure us. The best, the most hopeful of all such things, have been frequently baffled, and confounded by the Divine Anger. Riches profit not in the day of Evil; rather expose to Envy and Danger, than secure against it. They who have most to lose, are likely to suffer most, and commonly are least able to bear it. God hath hitherto saved us with a Nevertheless, notwithstanding our Provocations: It may be, He will be intreated to do so still: But the Sins of Societies and Communities.

munites of Men, as such, must be punish'd in this World, if at all. Tho' a single wicked Man may escape the Judgments of God in this Life, it cannot be expected for a sinful Nation, without Repentance.

5. Unless by Repentance we make Peace with God, what an inconsiderable thing is the Civil Peace of the Nation, as to Us in particular? To have Peace round about, if we have not Peace above, and Peace within? While you are unreconciled to God, how little doth it signify to you, what Changes are made in the Thrones of Princes, or what are the Successes of War. While thy Sin is unpardoned, while God is thine Enemy, while the Curses of his Law are in force against thee, while his Wrath hangs over thy Head, and thou mayst drop into Hell the next Night, or the next Hour? That's the Case, if thou art not at Peace with God.

Let us then be perswaded to turn from Sin, which is the great Obstacle of Peace. There is yet Hope, if you will do so, from the Answer in this Text, to the Question, Is it Peace? What Peace, so long as the Whoredoms? &c. 'Tis implied, Our Case is not desperate: Tho' our Breaches be as wide as the Sea, and our Wounds are deep, and Matters doubtful, yet is there Hope in Israel concerning us. The Course taken this Day, if seriously engaged in, and generally so, may obtain National Mercy, a good Issue of this War, and the Prevention of further Judgments, with the healing of our Breaches at home, and the establishing us on sure and lasting Foundations.

Let us resolve and endeavour, every one of us, for our own parts, to comply with our Duty, and obey this Call and Counsel of God; I may then conclude with a Blessing, (the comprehensive Blessing of Peace;) I may beg it of God in hope, and say, Peace be in your Families, Peace in your Neighbourhood, Peace in this City and Nation, and the Nations round about us; and among all the Reformed Churches, with an Abundant Blessing of the Gospel of Peace. And now the Peace of God, which passeth all Understanding, establish and keep your Minds and Hearts, in the Knowledge and Love of God, and of his Son Jesus Christ our Lord. To whom be Glory throughout all the Churches for ever. Amen.
